A Warning to Parents

By Marilyn Morris, Founder / President

Whether you're aware of it or not, your job as a parent just became a little more difficult on January 1, 2014. If you're drawing a blank, perhaps the mere mention of Colorado will stir your memory. And no, this has nothing to do with the Super Bowl debacle. It does, however, have everything to do with marijuana. Ah, yes - that was the first day in American history where people could walk into a retail store in the United States and legally purchase recreational marijuana.

So what's the big deal? Presently, the new law only holds true in Colorado. Besides, nothing has changed regarding underage use. It's still against the law in all 50 states for anyone under 21 to purchase or consume marijuana. Well, the problem, as I see it, focuses on one word...PERCEPTION.
